With PKS, we systematically analyzed our IBM system landscape: The focus was on DB2 access in numerous applications as the basis for migration to SaaS/public cloud. The combination of ADDI, a clean toolchain, and the PKS team's expertise provided us with a robust overview – including domain clustering. Particularly valuable were the iterative validation of the analysis methods, the successful integration of initial results into LeanIX, and the implementation of automated processes for ADDI and report generation.

The collaboration was characterized by reliability, openness, and constructive dialogue on equal footing. PKS contributed expertise and practical experience that were crucial for our team.

Those responsible for transformation should first work with PKS to establish transparency and then develop strategies based on that foundation.
