

Reference quote

PKS's VS Code training was technically very strong and showed us the potential VS Code offers on IBMi for our future development work.

We see clear advantages in the platform's extensibility, better integration into the database environment, and an overall significantly more efficient workflow.

At the same time, however, it is also clear that established working methods – for example, in debugging – will not be completely replaced. We are therefore all the more pleased to be able to continue benefiting from PKS's expertise in the future.
